Art Unit: 2616

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 23-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter.

Regarding claim 1, the claimed subject matter "A computer-readable medium having --- performing a method" is directed toward a software program per se. Since a computer program is merely a set of instructions capable of being executed by a computer, the computer program itself is not a process. In contest, a claimed computer-readable medium encoded with a data structure defines structural and functional interrelationships between the data structure and the computer software and hardware components which permit the data structure's functionality to be realized, and is thus statutory.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Art Unit: 2616

4. Claims 1,8,23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Magana et al (US Pat. # 6,487,418).

Magana et al disclose a channel selector for selecting from a plurality of channels an optimal channel for establishing radio communication comprising a wireless transmission and reception unit for transmitting or receiving information of peripheral access point devices wirelessly (20 of fig. 1); a control unit for searching channel numbers used by the peripheral access point devices from the information from the wireless transmission and reception unit (12 of fig. 1; lines 52-59, col. 4), deciding an optimal channel number from the channel numbers except for the used channel numbers, and setting the optimal channel number as a channel number (lines 31-41, col. 4); and an operator terminal for managing and controlling the control unit (10 of fig. 1).

5. Claims 2-7,9-14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. Claims 15-22 are allowed.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to AJIT G. PATEL whose telephone number is 571-272-3140. The examiner can normally be reached on MONDAY- FRIDAY.
